SUPREME COURT, U.S.

On Petitions for a Writ of Certiorari to the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit

RESPONSE TO MOTIONS TO EXPEDITE
CONSIDERATION

Petitioners in both these cases seek to advance consideration of their petitions for certiorari before judgment in the Court of Appeals, and to have this Court review the constitutionality of a Washington law restricting ballot appearances of multi-term congressional incumbents. A very similar provision was held unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of Arkansas, a judgment which is before this Court in Nos. 93-1456 and 93-1828.

3pp

U.S. Term Limits, Inc., respondent here, is also petitioner in the Arkansas case, No. 93-1456. For the reasons stated in U.S. Term Limits' response to the present petitions (filed today), the two cases are so similar that there appears no compelling reason to grant certiorari before judgment to add the Washington petitions to the Arkansas ones. The Washington ruling does, however, underscore the national impact of this issue and the need for this Court's prompt consideration and review of the Arkansas decision.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated, the motions to expedite should be denied.

Respectfully submitted,
